ABA allocates pay TV licences to Cosmovision Cable Television

SYDNEY: The ABA has allocated 50 licences for non-satellite pay TV broadcasting services to Cosmovision Cable Television Pty Ltd ('CCT').

CCT has indicated it intends to deliver its pay TV services via cable. The services will contain programs from North America, South America, Europe and other parts of the world and will include several Spanish language channels. At a later date CCT intends to also provide a service consisting of locally produced programs. The services will initially be offered in the western suburbs area of Sydney, with expansion to most of the Sydney metropolitan area envisaged.

'The ABA examined the shareholding structure of the company and found it complied with the foreign ownership provisions of the Broadcasting Services Act,'said Mr Peter Webb, ABA Chairman. 'In addition, the ABA found no reason to regard the company as being unsuitable to be allocated pay TV licences.'

Classification officers get together

SYDNEY: How do those involved in day-to-day decisions about classification on television maintain a common understanding of the Office of Film and Literature Classification (OFLC) guidelines which underpin the various broadcasting industry codes of practice?

Classification officers from the Nine, Seven, Ten, ABC and SBS networks met on 9 May at the ABA to catch up on recent developments in relation to codes and classification issues.

Lesley Osborne, Director Program Services, and Gordana Marin, Manager Codes and Conditions, reported on complaints against codes of practice and the implementation of the Federation of Australian Commercial Television Stations Commercial Television Industry Code of Practice (FACTS Code). Linda Sheldon, Research Manager, discussed the ABA's research on some of the changes to television classification introduced by the FACTS code, and R-rated programs on pay TV. FACTS Federal Director Tony Branigan reported on the first full year of the operation of the code and the level of complaints and way the stations had responded to these.

News Update

Andre Wright, Deputy Chief Censor, discussed the passage of the Classification (Publications, Films and Computer Games) Bill 1994, which simplifies current censorship laws, and the way the OFLC guidelines line up with the FACTS Code

ABA staff explained the process involved in investigating unresolved complaints about possible breaches of codes. The meeting discussed in detail some ABA decisions of investigations of unresolved complaints including two breaches by the Nine network. This information is presented in the ABA's recently published Your Say 1995: A Review of Audience Concerns about Australia's Broadcast Media (see pp. 3-4).

Classification officers employed by the commercial television networks, the ABC and SBS also regularly access the database of OFLC decisions to find out more about a particular decision of the OFLC, including the reasons why a film received a certain classification and the associated consumer advice.

It is important too for classification officers to meet and discuss issues relevant to their work, together and with the OFLC. Forums such as the OFLC's annual conference are particularly useful as they provide an opportunity for representatives of the community and the industry to consider relevant code issues. Regular get-togethers involving classification officers, the OFLC and the ABA also contribute to this necessary exchange of information.

The next meeting of the group is proposed for July, when classifiers will bring with them program clips for discussion of some of the more challenging classification issues.
