No applications received for Murwillumbah community radio licence

The ABA decided on 27 June 2002 not to proceed with the allocation of a community radio broadcasting licence for Murwillumbah at this time.

The ABA sought applications for the licence on 24 May 2002. The closing date for applications was 21 June. No applications had been received by the closing date.

Aspirant community broadcaster Cool FM has been broadcasting under temporary community broadcasting licences since 1998, however it advised the ABA that it would not be applying for the permanent licence. A number of other groups and individuals contacted the ABA expressing an interest in applying for the licence. However, none of these potential applicants were able to submit an application before the closing date.

The ABA received requests from three potential applicants for an extension to the closing date, however, decided not to grant the requested extension.

'The ABA will readvertise the licence at some time in the future. The ABA hopes that during the intervening period cooperative arrangements can be formed between different groups who may be interested in providing a service to replace Cool FM,' said ABA Chairman Professor David Flint.

Any groups who are interested in providing a community radio broadcasting service will be able to provide broadcasts under temporary community broadcast licences, sharing the one frequency (101.3 MHz) available in the area for this purpose.

ABA wins Internet safety award

Wiredsafety.org (formerly known as Cyberangels) has awarded the ABA a WiredKids Online Safety Leadership Award for its outstanding website www.cybersmartkids.com.au

The cybersmartkids website provides information and advice for families to help keep children safe on the Internet. It was established as part of the first 'Online Australia Day' on 27 November 1998 and was a joint initiative of the ABA and the National Office of the Information Economy (NOIE).

The website is also part of an overall ABA education program Cybersmart Kids Online - smart net surfing for kids and their grownups aiming to provide tools and information for adults supervising children, and friendly tips for children on how to be Internet savvy.

The program was formulated in response to the
