

The ACMA extends a welcoming hand to Japanese delegation

The Japanese Minister for Internal Affairs and Communications, Mr Haraguchi Kazuhiro, and staff from the Japanese Ministry of Internal Affairs and Communications, visited the ACMA's offices in Sydney in July.

The Minister and his staff, plus a Japanese press crew that accompanied the delegation from Tokyo, met Chris Chapman, Chairman of the ACMA and Nerida O'Loughlin, General Manager, Digital Economy Division.

As these photos illustrate, the group made the most of the opportunity to meet and exchange information. They discussed the ACMA's role within the communications industry in Australia and touched on the Authority's award-winning cybersafety programs as well as the regulation impact of the National Broadband Network. 📡

