

Moys List on the Internet

A list has been started on the Internet for Moys users. It is called: lis-moys-users and you can join by sending the command:

join lis-moys-users firstname(s) lastname

as the only text of an email message to:

mailbase@mailbase.ac.uk

This list will be the primary means of maintaining and updating Moys 3rd edition. Additions and changes to the classification will be discussed on the list and the Moys Editorial Committee members hope to meet "by Internet" to decide on changes etc. to the classification. It is not clear how this will work out but I urge anyone who uses Moys to join the list as soon as possible.

Those Moys users who do not have access to the Internet should look out for notices of Moys developments in the columns of Australian Law Librarian. If you would like a message to be put on the Internet to members of the list, e.g. any suggested changes or requests for changes, please contact me in writing (fax: 06 2732110) so I can relay the information on your behalf.

The Moys users list has been set up by Donal Hanna, Mailbase, University Computing Service, Newcastle University, Newcastle upon Tyne, UK NE1 7RU.

Butterworths Manager Retires

David Jackson, Managing Director of Butterworths for the last 16 years, retired at the end of March. Mr Jackson always kept in touch and was a welcome visitor to our libraries. We wish him all the best for the future and a happy retirement. We would like to welcome his successor, Mr Stephen Stout, and look forward to working with him.

Law librarians will also miss Rod de Beer who left Butterworths in April. Rod's responsive and cooperative approach to Publishers Liaison matters was always appreciated. We look forward to dealing with Mari Kauppinen who will take Rod's place on the Publishers Liaison Committee.

Wanted - Law Library Exchange Position

Ms Marnie Wright, Senior Assistant Librarian at Ashurst Morris Crisp in London, has written to ask if any law library could offer her a position for six months from July 1995. Ms Wright is currently in a reference position. She has worked at the law firm for two and a half years, including acting in charge for six months from August 1994 to February 1995. She has DIALOG, LEXIS and Internet experience and has used CAIRS and Idealist OPAC software. Ms Wright has also evaluated information systems and was responsible for researching and submitting the specification for a new catalogue and library management system.

If anyone can help Ms Wright, please contact me for a copy of her curriculum vitae.

Her fax number in London if you want to contact her directly is: 0011-44-171-972 7990.

Blackwells to Open in London

Blackwells has announced that it will open a bookshop in London at the end of August. The address will be 100 Charing Cross Road, close to Foyles and other well-known bookshops. Blackwells has said that the new shop will resemble its Oxford store "in microcosm".

Wildy's Get Their Book

Received at Monash University Law Library recently was a postcard from Wildy and Sons, Ltd, that marvellous long-established law bookseller in London's Lincoln's Inn. The card reported that they had found a second-hand book we had once asked them to locate - Moore's Collected Papers published in 1944. The postcard referred to our enquiry dated 12 January 1965! This, undoubtedly, is record-keeping and perseverance at its finest.

Law in Australian Society: National Library Oral History Project

As one of its Special Projects, the Oral History Section is conducting a series of interviews with outstanding lawyers and judges

The project, Law in Australian Society, will cover federal jurisdictions including the High Court, Federal Court, Family Court, federal tribunals and commissions. Interviews will include eminent barristers, academic lawyers and senior members of key law firms at both federal and state levels.

The National Library has contracted a number of specialist interviewers to work on the project, including former journalist Mr Daniel Connell, legal historian Dr Ruth Campbell and barrister Mr John Mancy.

As part of the Library's Australian Special Collections, the Oral History Section works closely with the Manuscripts and Pictorial Sections. Therefore, it is hoped to acquire a photograph of each participant and to explore the possible acquisition of personal papers.

These materials will provide a valuable supplement to the Library's large law collection.

Reprinted from National Library of Australia Gateways (ISSN 1039-3498), no 13, January 1995.

For further information contact Mr Mark Cranfield, Manager, Oral History Section, National Library of Australia, Canberra ACT 2600. Tel 06-2621636.
