

It happened at you

Abdurrahman Wahid (second from right) visited Parliament House in his capacity as President of Indonesia. He was met by Prime Minister John Howard and Deputy Speaker Garry Nehl (left). Photo: AUSPIC

During 2001, the International Year of Volunteers, Members of the House of Representatives have been recognising the efforts of Australian volunteers. Member for Fraser, Bob McMullan, recently presented Australian aid workers with certificates acknowledging their work.

House

Governor-General Peter Hollingworth (seated left) assents to the Budget legislation (Appropriation Bill (No 1) 2001-02) - the first legislation he assented to after becoming Australia's 23rd Governor-General. Watching the assent are (from right to left) the Speaker of the House of Representatives, Neil Andrew; Clerk of the House of Representatives, Ian Harris; Official Secretary to the Governor-General, Martin Bonsey; and Government House Aide, Maria Cicutto. Photo: AUSPIC

A national conference of parliamentary environment committees was held at Parliament House, Canberra. Conducted by the House of Representatives Environment and Heritage Committee, the conference enabled parliamentarians from throughout Australia to discuss issues confronting parliamentary environment committees at the State and Federal level. Photo: AUSPIC