

About the Contributors

Michelle Backstrom is a Lecturer at the Faculty of Law, Queensland University of Technology and is also the Director of Postgraduate Studies in the Law School. Michelle is the author or co-author of many articles on topics including contract law, property law and legal education and also a contract law textbook. She previously practised as a solicitor in a national law firm in the commercial law area.

Peter Black is a Senior Lecturer at the Faculty of Law, Queensland University of Technology, where he teaches and researches internet law, media law and constitutional law. Peter studied Arts, with a major in Media Studies, and Law at the University of Queensland, graduating from Law as a University Medallist. He obtained his Master of Laws from Columbia University in New York in 2004, where he focused on media law and the First Amendment. Since joining the Queensland University of Technology in 2005, Peter has developed an expertise in the legal and policy issues surrounding social media. In addition to his teaching and researching in this area, he is a regular media commentator on these and other issues, including government, politics and constitutional law. Peter is a Fellow of the United Kingdom Higher Education Academy.

Des Butler is a Professor of Law at the Faculty of Law, Queensland University of Technology, where he previously served as Assistant Dean, Research (1997-2002). He was awarded his doctorate in 1996 for his thesis on liability for psychiatric injury, and is the author or co-author of 21 books and numerous articles on topics including media and entertainment law, contract law, psychiatric injury caused by negligence and higher education. He is a member of the editorial boards of the international Torts Law Journal and Legal Education Review. He is an Australian Learning and Teaching Fellow and a Senior Fellow of the United Kingdom Higher Education Academy and has received numerous awards for his innovative learning and teaching practices.

Geoff Holland is a Lecturer at the Faculty of Law at the University of Technology, Sydney. Geoff is also a barrister and practises in media law, defamation and constitutional law. Geoff is a former member of the Board of Directors of Electronic Frontiers Australia. He was a member of the editorial board of the UTS Law Review (2003-2006) and was Co-Editor of Volume 5 of the Review, "The Public Right to Know". He is author of the Halsbury's Laws of Australia chapter on Entertainment Law.

ABOUT THE CONTRIBUTORS

Amanda Stickle is the Assistant Dean, Learning and Teaching of the Faculty of Law, Queensland University of Technology and an Associate Professor in the Law School. Amanda teaches torts law in the Bachelor of Laws (Honours) and is the author of Australian Torts Law, now in its fourth edition. She previously was the torts editor of The Queensland Lawyer (2001-2014), and is currently on the editorial board of the bulletin, Australian Civil Liability. Amanda is a Senior Fellow of the United Kingdom Higher Educational Academy.