leviews - continued

ights of performers, authors and composers n the Pacific region'. This is more likely to e of interest to practitioners and academic awyers. It is hoped that the major chalenges thrown out by the authors will be aken up in appropriate quarters.

The book has a number of useful tables, ormal in law books, a bibliography, an 'Inlex of Offices and Organisations' with adlresses, and a good general index. It is well produced and sturdily bound and is a welome addition to the as yet small number of oublications from this enterprising young ublisher. 'Sterling and Hart on Copyright' leserves a place in any library, if not for the enefit of the general reader then certainly or the education and safety of the librarian.

Rob Brian UNSW Law Librarian

Library services

HE MEASUREMENT OF LIBRARY SER-ICES: AN APPRAISAL OF CURRENT PROB-EMS AND POSSIBILITIES / John Allred. Bradford: MCB Publications. 1979. ISSN 413 5124. ISBN 086176 024 7 v1, no2. IS$24 per issue.

he author states as the thesis of the pamhlet the proposition that, although library neasurement needs to move on from the lea of simple enumeration, the present mphasis on output measurement is not the final answer.

Allred argues that 'the nature of library service is that of a "broad aim" social program best judged (evailuated) by gathering politically significant information on the consequences of political acts".

Within the 39 pages, four chapters, of text the pamphlet ranges widely over the field of library measurement. The most valuable chapter, which is also by far the largest, is Chapter Ome, in which Allred traces the development of measurement techniques in librariansship.

In the remaining three chapters he seeks to present a personal view of 'philosophy regarding measurement of library service. It is here, presumably, that Allred seeks to sustain the propositiom stated in his introduction and quoted above. This would always have been diifficult, given the limitation of space available, and the problem is compounded by the discursive style of writing.

The trend of the argument is not always clear and it cannot be said that Allred succeeds in upholding his thesis. Nevertheless, some readers will find these chapters useful for their references to cognate developments in fields outside llibrarianship.

In summary, although Allred has not clearly sustained his airgument the work is of some interest as a review of the state of the art and of cogmate developments in other fields. There is at useful bibliography.

Michael J. Ramsden
Royal Melbourne Institute of Technology

John Cook . . . moves to Canberra

JOHN COOK, of Infotech Library and Information Consultants, Perth, has been appointed as an Assistant Research Officer in the Department of Communications, Canberra. He will take up the appointment early in 1982.

ELIZABETH CARVOSSO has been appointed representative for the southern states of Australia by Ebsco Subscription Services.

Elizabeth was formerly Orders Librarian at the Central Library, CSIRO, Melbourne.

TONY FOSKETT, Head of Library Studies at SAIT will be spending two terms teaching at the Graduate School of Library and Information Science, University of California, Los Angeles, as a Distinguished Visiting Scholar. Tony will return to Australia at the end of Iune.

Frances Lemmes . . . Sydney Tech Librarian

FRANCES LEMMES has been appointed Librarian at Sydney Technical College. Prior to this appointment, Ms Lemmes worked in the State Library of NSW and the Mitchell Library, spent a few years tutoring at the School of Librarianship at the University of NSW, then returned to the State Library to become Liaison Librarian. In 1978 she was Extension Librarian, and in October 1981 joined TAFE Library Services.

JUDITH WATERER has been appointed Librarian-in-Charge of the Branch and Departmental Libraries Division, University of Sydney.

Miss Waterer came to Sydney from Goulburn CAE. Prior to that she had worked in the State Library of NSW, Armidale and Wollongong Teachers Colleges, and at the University of Papua and New Guinea, where she was Reader Services Librarian, and for a time Acting University Librarian.

AGM resolutions

ALL RESOLUTIONS OF Annual General Meetings of the LAA ferred to the General Council for iscussion and ratification. At the 1981 AGM eld in Adelaide on 15 October the following notions were passed:

1 That the LAA adopt the McGraw-Hill oublishing guidelines for eliminating sexism n future LAA publications and revisions of oublications, including Regulations.

2 That members be given the opportunity o join either two Sections or one Section nd one Special Interest Group as part of their membership fee.

General Council discussed these motions and resolved that the fiirst be referred to the Publications Board for comment and to report back to the first meeting of General Council in 1982.

The second motion was referred to the Queensland Branch, who are currently undertaking a study of the present structure of LAA fees. Membership of Sections and Special Interest Groups will be discussed in this study. The Branch will report on this item to the second meeting off General Council in

> Susan Acutt Executive Director

SAVE WITH FAXON'S CHECK-IN AND CONSOLIDATED

SAVE TIME. Staff time. Your serials are shipped directly from the publishers to us. We check your titles in and forward them in bulk with a detailed packing slip to your library. This procedure saves you hours of clerical check-in time.

SAVE ENERGY. Your energy. We make sure your collection is compilete. We provide a Cumulative Monthly Report of titles, listing volume numbers, and issues received to date. Faxon claims any missing issues immediately. In addition, we provide you with customized, computerized records to assist you in preparing financial or management reports.

SAVE MONEY. Your budget. We are usually able to take advantage of US delivery postal rates. This saves you the cost of direct foreign delivery on Nor th American publications

WRITE TODAY. Get more information and a FREE copy of Faxon's Cientennial Issue of the Librarians' Guide to Serials, containing listings taken from the over 150,000 international titles in the Faxon data base.

Thomas J. Reich International Division, F.W. Faxon Company, Inc., 15 Southwest Park Westwood. Massachusetts 02090 USA TWX: 710-3418-6724 15 Southwest Park, Westwood, Massachusetts 02090 USA

