James Cook Bicentenary Scholarship For a Management Internship

Applications are invited for the James Cook Bicentenary Scholarship for 1994-95. The Scholarship has a total value of $A20,000 and is funded by Blackwell's of Oxford and Blackwell North America.

In 1994-95 the Scholarship is available to fund travel and associated expenses to enable an Australian or New Zealand Librarian to spend a period as a management intern in a British or North American Library or libraries. Candidates should indicate the library or libraries where they hope to spend the internship but it is not necessary to make formal approaches until the scholarship has been awarded. The final arrangements will need the approval of the Convenor of the Selection Panel.

Applications for alternative uses of the Scholarship or for the combination of a management internship with some other major project will not be supported.

Candidates should be Australian or New Zealand citizens of at least five years standing and should not be more than 45 years of age. They should hold library positions at middle management level in a large library or a senior management position in a smaller library. Equal consideration will be given to female and male candidates.

Applications should include evidence of leadership potential, by way of referees' reports and personal achievement. Details of the proposed internship(s) and application of funds must be submitted as well as an indication of the benefits anticipated and future career expectations.

Applications should be forwarded to Derek Fielding, Convenor, James Cook Bicentenary Scholarship Selection Panel, c/o Office of the Pro-Vice-Chancellor (Academic Services), University of Queensland, QLD 4072, to arrive no later than 29 October 1992.
