conferences

ALIA Information Online Conference and Exhibition 2011

1-3 February 2011
Sydney Convention and Exhibition Centre, Sydney NSW

Speaker Announcement
Sebastian Chan - Powerhouse Museum
Sebastian Chan leads the Digital, Social and Emerging Technologies department at the Powerhouse Museum in Sydney. Seb writes the popular Fresh & New(er) blog in the museum world, and leads a parallel life in electronic music and art as editor-in-chief of Cyclic Defrost Magazine.

Workshops a plenty
The workshop program is brimming with choices for 2011.

The program can be accessed by downloading the 2011 registration e-brochure from http://www.information-online.com.au

Places are limited, so to avoid disappointment please register early! To register go to: http://www.information-online.com.au

Workshop Dates: Monday 31 January and Friday 4 February

Boardroom Bound – the ALIA Board of Directors about the role of the board and how members can develop their skills and competencies to become involved.

In the Know: Taking a knowledge use approach. Cory Banks, Parsons Brinkerhoff, Library 3.0 services without 3.0 million dollars: Free and cheap web services for resource poor libraries. Sarah Houghton – Jan, San Jose Public Library.

Putting the developers in front of the customers – NOTE: for ExLibris Customers only, by ExLibris and the Australian & NZ Regional ExLibris User Group (ANZREG)

Small spaces, big ideas: marketing and delivering library services to clients in the 21st century. Study Group Australia

Web metrics for collecting institutions. Sebastian Chan, Powerhouse Museum

Copyright in the digital age. Copyright Agency Limited.

Electronic Resources Australia (ERA) membership forum 2011 – discuss and provide input into policy direction and strategic issues for ERA.

The community working together: University of Technology – NOTE: for ExLibris Customers only, by ExLibris and the Australian & NZ Regional ExLibris User Group (ANZREG)

Qualitative evaluation of Library & Information Services using narrative techniques: a hands on workshop. Nerida Hart, Hart Knowledge.

Research for LIS practitioners. ALIA Research Committee – collaborative practitioner research and publication in the LIS community.

Keep up to date with all things IO via:
http://www.information-online.com.au
Facebook
http://www.facebook.com/pages/
ALIA-Information-Online-Group/107887822586150
Twitter http://www.twitter.com/iogau
Don't forget the conference hashtag #aliaioc
LinkedIn
http://www.linkedin.com/groups?/
home=&gid=1697997&trk=anet-ug-hm
Delicious http://www.delicious.com/iogau
The 2009 papers have been bookmarked and tagged.

ALIA National Library & Information Technicians 2011 Conference

Back to Basics – Perth 2011
12–16 September 2011
Sheraton Hotel, Perth WA

Call for Abstracts Now Open!
Abstracts for paper and workshop presentations for the ALIA National Library & Information Technicians 2011 Conference are now being accepted via the Conference website until Wednesday 1 December 2010.

Back to Basics aspires to provide a program that will stimulate discussion, challenge ideas, and encourage new thinking. Three program streams reflect and support the theme:
- Personal Development (the individual)
- Professional Development (the profession)
- Client Services (the client)

For further information, please check the Conference website or contact ICE Australia.

Sponsorship & Exhibition Opportunities
A wide range of fantastic packages have been developed to promote your organisation at the Conference. For the first time, ALIA are offering special rates for organisations wishing to sponsor more than one ALIA Conference. To receive a copy of the Sponsorship & Exhibition Prospectus, email us now at libtech2011@iceaustralia.com

Staying in Touch with Libtech 2011
http://conferences.alia.org.au/libtec2011/
Facebook: search ALIA National Library & Information Technicians 2011 Conference
Twitter: http://twitter.com/ALIAlibtec
Email: libtech2011@iceaustralia.com

Congratulations Dr Patricia Milne

On 4 August at the ACTive ALIA Midwinter Dinner, the ALIA Board of Directors conferred a Fellowship on Dr Patricia Milne.

Trish has made an outstanding contribution to LIS as an educator, researcher, and by sharing her knowledge through publication. She has helped others to become aware of issues facing the profession and encouraged them to explore new directions and ideas to strengthen its intellectual base.

Following a period as Visiting Fellow attached to the University Library at the Australian National University, Patricia was appointed as Lecturer in the Library and Information Studies program and the Knowledge Management program at the University of Canberra. As Program Director, Library and Information Studies, between 1995 and 2000, Patricia remained committed to furthering her knowledge in the field, gaining a PhD from the University in 1998. Her doctoral thesis The effect of enhanced electronic access to information on academics' patterns of scholarly communication at the Australian National University: A case study inspired a change in practices across Australia to embrace new technology to support the work of scholars.

As a long-standing member, Patricia has contributed significantly to the aims of the Association. As a member of the ACT Branch Council during the 1990s, she served on the committee and led the development of a mentoring program that involved many members of the Branch. From 1997 to 1999, she was joint editor of the ALIA journal ELIS:A, Education Library and Information Services: Australia. She also served as a member of the Program Committee for the ALIA 2000 Conference held in Canberra.

In awarding the distinction of Fellow of the Australian Library and Information Association, the Association recognises the significant and valuable contribution Patricia has made to the library and information services profession in Australia and her dedication to the aims of the Association.