- (c) by adding at the end thereof the following subsections:—

“(2) References in this Act to the capital cost of an approved building shall be construed as references to such sum as the Treasurer considers necessary to cover the cost of the provision of the building or, as the case may be, the provision of the building as extended, altered, or added to in accordance with the plans and specifications approved under section four, assuming—

- (b) in any case, that any works for the erection, extension, or alteration, or the making of additions to, the building are carried out at the current market values or rates applicable thereto.

“(3) In subsection (2) of this section, ‘appropriate authority’ means—

(a) in a case to which paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of section two applies, the freehold estate in the land on which the building is, or is to be, erected being already vested in the organization or the terms on which it became so vested; or

(b) in any case, any goods or materials being already available to the organization for the purposes of the building or the terms on which any goods or materials, or labour or other services, will be made so available, the corporation, if it considers it proper in the circumstances so to do, may, for the purposes of this section, treat as an amount raised by the organization the whole or a part of the amount by which that actual cost is, for the reasons referred to in this subsection, less than the capital cost of the building.”.

4 Section seven of the Principal Act is amended by inserting, after subsection (4), the following subsection:—

“(4A) Subsection (4) of this section does not apply in a case where the Treasurer is satisfied that the total amount of the money that has been borrowed for the purpose of the purchase, erection, extension, or alteration of, or the making of additions to, the approved building, does not exceed—
