- (b) authorized or required the expenditure or application of money during any 2 or more financial years, that money may, to the extent to which it has not been expended or applied before the commencement of this Act, be expended or applied in accordance with that enactment as if that enactment had not been repealed.

(2) Where an enactment that is repealed by this Act imposed or levied a tax, duty, charge, rate, or impost, and, at the commencement of this Act, the tax, duty, charge, rate, or impost thereby imposed or levied, or any part thereof, has not been paid by a person by whom it is payable, that tax, duty, charge, rate, or impost, or part thereof, as the case may be, remains payable by that person, and may be recovered accordingly, as if that enactment had not been repealed.

(3) Where an enactment that is repealed by this Act authorized the execution or carrying out of any work or undertaking by the Governor or by a State authority or local body and, at the commencement of this Act, the execution or carrying out of that work or undertaking had not been commenced, or had been commenced but not completed, the Governor or that State authority or local body may execute or carry out that work or undertaking, or, as the case may be, complete the execution or carrying out of that work or undertaking, and may do, or continue to do, all such acts and things as may be necessary for the purposes of the execution or carrying out of that work or undertaking, as if that enactment had not been repealed.

(4) Where an enactment that is repealed by this Act authorized the making of a loan or advance to a person or class of persons and, at the commencement of this Act, the loan or advance so made to any person has not been repaid in accordance with the requirements of that enactment, the loan or advance (together with the interest, if any, payable in respect thereof), so far as it has not been repaid, continues to be repayable in accordance with the requirements of that enactment as if that enactment had not been repealed, and any proceedings or remedies for the recovery thereof may be taken or enforced, and any securities for the repayment thereof may be realized, in accordance with the provisions of that enactment, as if that enactment had not been repealed.

(5) Where by an enactment to which subsection (4) relates a charge was imposed on any property or any conditions were prescribed as conditions upon or subject to which the loan or advance was required to be made or repaid, then until the repayment of the loan or advance (together with the interest, if any, payable in respect thereof) that charge continues in full force and effect and may be enforced accordingly, and those conditions continue to apply, in all respects as if that enactment had not been repealed.

(6) Where an enactment that is repealed by this Act vested any land, or any estate or interest in land, in any person (including the Crown) the repeal of that enactment does not affect the vesting of that land, or of that estate or interest, or any conditions, restrictions, obligations, or trusts imposed or created by or under that enactment in respect of the use, sale, disposal, leasing, mortgaging, or charging thereof and any conditions, restrictions, obligations, or trusts so imposed or created continue to have full force and effect and may be enforced accordingly in all respects as if that enactment had not been repealed.

(8) Where an enactment that is repealed by this Act authorized the Governor or a State authority or local body to borrow any money for the purposes of that enactment or of any enactment incorporated therewith or with which that enactment was incorporated and, at the commencement of this Act, the whole or any part of the money so authorized to be borrowed had not been borrowed, that money or that part of that money, as the case may be, may, notwithstanding the repeal of that enactment, be borrowed and applied, in accordance with that enactment, as if that enactment had not been repealed.

(12) Where by an enactment that is repealed by this Act any payment, act, matter, or thing was made or deemed to be lawful, valid, or effectual, or any person was released or discharged from any claim, action, suit, or proceeding, that payment, act, matter, or thing shall, to the extent to which it was so made or deemed to be lawful, valid, or effectual, continue to be, or to be deemed to be, lawful, valid, or effectual or, as the case may be, that person shall continue to be so released or discharged, as if that enactment had not been repealed.

(13) The repeal by this Act of any enactment does not affect any relief or discharge from, or indemnity against, any disqualification, penalty, forfeiture, incapacity, or disability granted to, or conferred on, any person or class of persons by or under that enactment, and any such person or class of persons continues to be entitled to the benefit of the relief, discharge, or indemnity so granted or conferred in all respects as if that enactment had not been repealed.
